Giving Your Kids the Gift of Spending Time with You

In 1997, I was the coach of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. I was having a fun year on the football field, but several of our coaches used to take walks after practice and discuss what was going on, not necessarily with the team, but with our families. One of the things we came up with was we could us tips, little pointers, reminders of how we could be better. It's amazing to see how it's developed from that one thought process in 1997, the idea that men/women have to work hard to be good dads and mothers. You want to put the same energy you do at work into your most important job, which is being a father or mother.

The most important offshoot we've had from the time that we started All Pro Dad has been the All Pro Dad's Day breakfasts. Once a month, fathers (or mothers) go to their kid's schools, a restaurant, or somewhere else and have breakfast with their kids. It gives them the experience of being together and it's been fantastic. - From Dungy's Diary (Tony' Dungys Take on Life)

This is a great reminder to us all as athletic administrators. Our job and schedule can be very demanding and take us away from our families. As we approach the holiday season, we want to encourage you to spend time with love ones and cherish those moments.

We Wish All Of You A Merry Christmas

We would like to congratulate the 2015 Tennessee Titans Mr. Football Awards Winners
